Delcan's Los Angeles Regional Traffic Management Center project receives CELSOC engineering excellence award

Los Angeles, CA, December 18, 2007 — Delcan, an award winning, multi-disciplinary engineering, management and technology consulting firm is pleased to announce that it is a recipient of the 2008 Honor award from the Consulting Engineers and Land Surveyors of California (CELSOC) for Caltrans's Los Angeles Regional Traffic Management Center (LARTMC) project.

Caltrans has also received The Center for Digital Government and Education's 2007 Best of California Award for "Most Innovative Use of Technology" category for the LARTMC project.

The LARTMC was created with the goals to reduce congestions by at least 20%, improve travel reliability by at least 20%, increase safety on highways, improve the ability to respond to natural disasters, and increase security preparedness. The LARTMC serves forty three (43) distinct government functions and will act as the center for Intelligent Transportation Systems and Emergency Response operations for the next 30 years.

Delcan Corporation, as lead consultant, played an integral role from the project's inception to the final system cutover and maintenance.

"Delcan is delighted that our client, Caltrans has been recognized for their innovative use of technology to relieve congestion, increase highway safety as evidenced in the recent wildfires in the region. Caltrans has commended Delcan on our expertise and reliability that were key factors in achieving project success. We value our long standing professional ties with Caltrans and are delighted that this critical and complex project is receiving such prestigious recognition," said Jeneane Prince, Chief Operations Officer for Delcan Corporation.
